INTRODUCTION

WELCOME TO HELL! ENCOUNTERS IN AVERNUS PROVIDES more than sixty short encounters and two encounter chains to complement the Baldur's Gate: Descent into Avernus adventure from Wizards of the Coast.

OVERVIEW

This supplement has the following sections:

- Chapter 1: Avernus Encounters. Twenty short encounters that can happen anywhere as the characters travel throughout Avernus.
- Chapter 2: River Styx Encounters. Twenty short encounters that can happen in Avernus as the characters travel on or near the River Styx.
- Chapter 3: Elturel Encounters. Twenty short encounters that can happen anywhere in the city of Elturel after it is dragged into Avernus.
- Chapter 4: Encounter Chains. Two encounter chains that can be used to flesh out or create new adventures in Avernus.
- Appendix A: Monster & NPC Statistics. Statistics for creatures used in the encounters not found in the Monster Manual.
- Appendix B: Magic Items. Descriptions for magic items found in the encounters not found in the Dungeon Master's Guide.

RUNNING ENCOUNTERS

To run these encounters, you need the D&D fifth edition core rulebooks: Player's Handbook, Dungeon Master's Guide, and Monster Manual. You also need a copy of Baldur's Gate: Descent into Avernus, though with a little adjustment, you could use most of these encounters for any infernally themed adventure.

The Monster Manual contains stat blocks for most of the creatures found in the encounters. All the necessary stat blocks are included there or in appendix A. When a creature's name appears in bold type, that's a visual cue for you to look up the creature's stat block in the Monster Manual, unless the text instead refers you to the monster appendix in this book.

Spells and equipment mentioned in the encounters are described in the Player's Handbook. Magic items are described in the Dungeon Master's Guide, unless the adventure's text directs you to an item's description in appendix B.

ABBREVIATIONS

The following abbreviations appear in this book:

- AC = Armor Class
- DC = Difficulty Class
- XP = experience points
- pp = platinum piece(s)
- gp = gold piece(s)
- sp = silver piece(s)
- cp = copper piece(s)
- NPC = nonplayer character
- DM = Dungeon Master

RANDOM ENCOUNTERS

While the characters travel through Avernus and the streets of Elturel, you can roll a d20 for every 8 hours they spend traveling or resting to see if a random encounter occurs. On a roll of 12 or higher, choose the appropriate encounter table and roll or choose an encounter on that table. You can change the number of encounters the characters experience as you see fit.

ENCOUNTER DIFFICULTY

Each of the results on the encounter tables represents a certain kind of potential challenge.

If you let the dice have their way and the result is a large number of monsters or a powerful creature with a high challenge rating, the generated encounter might be too difficult or dangerous for the characters in their present circumstances. They might want to flee to avoid contact, or not to approach any closer after perceiving the monsters from a distance.

You also have the freedom to adjust the numbers, but it's important to remember that not every encounter involving a monster needs to result in combat. An encounter might indeed be the prelude to a battle, a negotiation for a devil deal, or some other interaction. What happens next depends on what the characters try, or what you decide is bound to occur.

DEVIL NAMES

While running these encounters or Baldur's Gate: Descent into Avernus, you might need to come up with a devil's name on the fly. Use the Devil Names table to create an original devil name by combining any first part of a name with any second part.

DEVIL NAMES

d20	First Part	Second Part
1	Zam	azad
2	Uz	ich
3	Hral	aaz

ENCOUNTER DESCRIPTIONS

Following are the encounters in alphabetical order.

AND NOW, THE WEATHER

A delusional chaotic neutral human mage who calls himself the Magnificent Meteorologist sits atop a blackened boulder on the plains of Avernus in perfect peace. When the characters meet him, he hums a nonsensical incantation and makes a perfectly accurate weather prediction. If he predicts a malign result, he clucks his tongue in sympathy, gives a vague description of the weather effect, then cheerfully bids the characters good day and wishes them luck on their quest.

Roll on the table below to determine the upcoming weather. This weather begins 2d12 hours later, and lasts for 1d20 hours.

AVERNUS WEATHER

1d6 Weather

- Clear Skies. The weather is hot, but unremarkable.
- Acid Rain. Terrible, sickly green storm clouds swirl in the sky. A creature takes 1d6 damage at the start of every hour it spends outside.
- Searing Heat. The air feels like it's on fire. A creature must succeed on a DC 10 Constitution saving throw at the start of every hour it spends outside or gain one level of exhaustion. Creatures resistant to fire damage have advantage on this save, and creatures immune to fire damage automatically succeed.
- Abyssal Smog. Miasma blankets the land. A creature must succeed on a DC 13 Constitution saving throw at the start of every hour it spends outside or be poisoned for 1 hour. A creature that spends 3 hours in a row poisoned in this way gains a random form of short-term madness (see "Madness" in chapter 8 of the Dungeon Master's Guide).
- Stygian Humidity. A wave of lethargy envelops the land as the waters of the River Styx permeate the air itself. A creature must succeed on a DC 10 Intelligence saving throw at the start of every hour it spends outside or forget one memory. The player describes the memory before it fades from their character's mind.
- Scattered Meteor Showers. Hundreds of minute meteorites hurtle through the sky and impact explosively upon the ground. Once during the meteor shower (at a time of the DM's choosing), all creatures within a 500-foot radius of a point chosen by the DM must make a DC 15 Dexterity saving throw or take 21 (6d6) fire damage and 21 (6d6) bludgeoning damage, or half as much damage on a successful save.

The characters may find the Magnificent Meteorologist again anywhere, as his boulder magically moves from place to place when no one is watching.

BLOOD WAR BATTLE

A battle between a devil squad (see “Devil Squad”) and a demon band (see “Demon Band”) is in the characters’ path. Roll any die. On an even result, the devils are winning the battle. On an odd result, the demons are winning.

DEMONS

The demons attack the characters and devils alike. Each flees when reduced to half its hit points.

DEVILS

If the devils are losing the battle and notice the characters, the fiends offer a deal to get the characters to fight for them. Otherwise the devils take no heed of the characters until the demons are defeated or the characters attack the devils first. If the characters have no deal with the devils, once the demons are put down, the devils turn and attack the characters. The devils flee when more than half their number fall.

BONEY GRAB BAG

These enormous piles of bone are scattered throughout Avernus, evidence of the ongoing Blood War. A character who spends 10 minutes searching the pile and makes a successful DC 12 Wisdom (Perception) check finds an item on the following table:

d20	Item
1	A set of bone pipes
2	Bag of 1,000 ball bearings
3	Charlatan’s die (see appendix B)
4	Crossbow, hand
5	Crossbow, light
6	Glass eyeball that looks about of its own accord and can roll around
7	Gold monocle frame without the lens
8	Lock of trickery (see appendix B)
9	Mariner’s armor
10	Money bag with 80 pp
11	Parchment (one sheet)
12	Quartz (50 gp)
13	Silver necklace with a gemstone pendant (250 gp)
14	Silver ring (20 gp)
15	Small chest containing 9000 sp
16	Small cloth doll skewered with needles
17	Small pocket mirror that slowly fogs over while held
18	Spell scroll of guidance
19	Warhammer
20	Waterskin

A maximum of five items can be found in the bone pile. If the characters spend more than 10 minutes searching the pile, roll for another encounter.

CHAIN RIDER

A chain devil mounted on a wyvern flies overhead. These fearsome creatures are responsible for patrolling the skies above Avernus on behalf of Zariel. Roll a d4 to determine the fiend’s reaction to the party:

1. It circles around the party once then flies off quickly in a new direction.
2. It lands 50 feet in front of the party and demands to know what they are doing. It is satisfied with any answer that sounds reasonable.
3. It lands 50 feet in front of the party and accuses them of working to bring down Zariel. A successful DC 20 Charisma (Deception or Persuasion) check convinces it otherwise, else it attacks.
4. It swoops down and attacks immediately.

COHORT IN CAMP

Camped on a low mesa overlooking the area is the 9th Cohort of the 497th Infantry Legion (9/497). It is commanded by a proud and pitiless chain devil named Signifier Hraxioch.

The 497th Legion, nicknamed “Unholy Triumph,” is one of several that Zariel has deployed full time to search for her lost sword. The 9th Cohort came here a few days ago and began searching the surrounding area.

COHORT COMPOSITION

The 9th Cohort, like all devil cohorts, consists of exactly one hundred devils divided into ten lances.

There are seven assault lances, each comprising ten bearded devils. Each lance has a designated leader, called the optio.

There are two shield lances, each comprising ten merregons (see appendix A). Each lance has a designated leader, called the optio.

There is one command lance, comprising Signifier Hraxioch, a cambion quartermaster (known as the armicustos), a spined devil signaler, and seven imp auxiliaries.

CAMP LAYOUT

The camp consists of twelve tents, all made of pale leather neatly stretched over bronze tent poles. Anyone examining the leather and who makes a successful DC 13 Wisdom (Medicine) check determines it is made from humanoid skin.

DISPOSITION

The cohort is carefully observing the surrounding area and certainly notices the characters unless they are invisible or travelling very stealthily. There is a 50 percent chance that Hraxioch sends an assault lance out to arrest the characters and bring them back to camp. This chance rises to 100 percent if the characters engage in combat within sight of the camp.

Hraxioch interrogates the characters rigorously, demanding to know how they came to Avernus, what they want, and if they know anything about Zariel’s sword. If the characters give satisfactory answers, Hraxioch lets them leave.

If the characters destroy the assault lance sent to arrest them, the cohort breaks camp and starts following the party, waiting for the right time to attack in force.

CORRUPTED SALVAGE

An infernal war machine (a Devil's Ride in appendix B of Baldur's Gate: Descent into Avernus) is impaled upon a jagged spike of stone jutting from the Avernian landscape. Strange green ichor dribbles from the damaged war machine. The previous rider of this war machine shoved a whole quasit into the machine's intake valve in a desperate attempt to get a last burst of power out of it, but the attempt backfired—and corrupted the remains of the Devil's Ride.

If this war machine is repaired (such as by the salamanders of the Firesnake Forge in Mahadi's Wandering Emporium), it has a random demonic boon and a demonic bane. Roll a d4 twice to determine a random boon and bane.

DEMONIC BOONS TABLE

d4 Boon

- 1 The machine can gain the effects of a Demon Ichor Boost for free once per day.
- 2 The machine has two souls trapped within it. A soul can be consumed to replicate the effects of using a soul coin.
- 3 The machine has an Acidic Bile Sprayer weapon that can be used by the machine's driver. This doesn't count against the number of weapons the machine can have.
- 4 Whenever the machine takes damage from a creature within 5 feet of it, the creature that damaged it takes the same amount of damage in return.

DEMONIC BANES TABLE

d4 Bane

- 1 The machine needs additional soul power to run, and leeches off of its driver's soul. Every time a creature inserts a soul coin, its hit point maximum is reduced by 1d10 points. Only a greater restoration spell or similar magic can reverse this hit point loss.
- 2 The machine oozes green liquid at all times, making its surface slick. Whenever the machine suffers a mishap, all creatures on the machine must succeed on a DC 15 Dexterity saving throw or be flung 5 feet from the machine and fall prone.
- 3 The machine's insides have been twisted up by demonic corruption, making the machine mishap prone. The machine's mishap threshold is reduced by 10.
- 4 The machine sprays a massive plume of thick black exhaust while running. The exhaust is visible in the air from up to a mile away, and the driver must make a successful DC 10 Constitution saving throw at the end of every hour while driving the machine or become poisoned for the next hour.

CRATER RAIDERS

The party discovers a 60-foot-diameter blasted crater at the center of which is a faintly glowing meteor recently fallen from the stormy sky above. The 15-foot-spherical meteor is embedded halfway into the ground. The scorched ground within 20 feet of the meteor is difficult terrain. If the party travels into the crater, roll 1d4 to determine the nature of the meteor:

1. Behind the meteor is a nest of 1d4 hellwasps (see appendix A). In addition, the meteor generates unstable energy. Any spell cast within the crater has a 1 in 10 chance of generating a wild magic effect (use the Wild Magic Surge table in chapter 3 of the Player's Handbook).
2. The meteor is plagued with demonic magic. Characters within 5 feet of the meteor must succeed on a DC 12 Constitution saving throw or suffer a flesh-warping effect (see chapter 3 of Baldur's Gate: Descent into Avernus). The effect can be removed with any magic that removes a curse. In addition, the glowing material oozing from the meteor has all the properties of demon ichor (see chapter 3 of Baldur's Gate: Descent into Avernus).
3. The meteor is an infernally enchanted stone golem. It attacks any character that comes within 30 feet of it.
4. The meteor is plagued with infernal magic. Characters within 10 feet of the meteor must succeed on a DC 13 Wisdom saving throw or suffer the effects of short-term madness (see chapter 8 of the Dungeon Master's Guide). In addition, on a failed save, any saving throw made against the pervasive evil of the plane is made with disadvantage to the roll (see chapter 3 of Baldur's Gate: Descent into Avernus). This effect lasts for 24 hours.

DEBTS PAID

A cambion disguised as an elderly human male approaches the characters, pathetically holding his worn hat in his hands. He introduces himself as Dante and claims he was forced to play in a game of three-dragon ante to earn money to pay off his spouse's drinking debt, but he lost everything he owned and is now stuck in Avernus in service to an "evil devil." He asks for the characters' help in playing a rematch of three-dragon ante so he can buy his way out of service.

The cambion enjoys toying with unsuspecting folk and getting them to gamble in his games. His disguise and lies are detectable with a successful DC 18 Wisdom (Insight) check.

If the characters agree to help, Dante takes them to a cave to play the game, which is occupied by an incubus and a succubus against whom the characters can bet. Each game costs an ante of one soul coin and is made by having all players make opposing Intelligence checks (adding in their proficiency bonuses if they are proficient with the game). The winner gets the pot. A character who does not have any soul coins can still play by offering a kiss to the fiends if the character loses. The fiends try to cheat by charming the characters then convincing them to fold.

If the characters win, they can give their earnings to Dante to pay off his debts. He, of course, keeps every coin.

DEMON BAND

The characters encounter one or more demons looking for a fight. Roll or choose on the Demon Band table to determine which demons the characters encounter. These demons attack as soon as they notice the characters. Each flees when it is reduced to half its hit points.

DEMON BAND

d8 Demons

1	4d10 dretches
2	1 barlgura and 2d6 dretches
3	2 barlguras
4	2 chasmes
5	3 vrocks
6	1 hezrou and 2d4 manes
7	1 glabrezu and 2d4 manes
8	1 nalfeshnee

DEMON HORDE OR DEVIL LEGION

The characters encounter a legion of devils or a horde of demons in their path (your choice). This force consists of hundreds of fiends. Roll a d4. On a 1 or 2, the force is marching toward their next battle. On a 3, the force is resting. On a 4, the characters encounter a battle between a devil legion and a demon horde.

A successful DC 15 group Dexterity (Stealth) check sneaks by the force unnoticed. Characters who fail this check or choose not to sneak by grab the attention of the army and a demon band (see "Demon Band") or devil squad ("Devil Squad") appears and attacks. At the start of every third round after combat begins, another demon band or devil squad arrives. If the characters flee, the devils they battle give chase. Use the chase rules in "Chases" in chapter 8 of the Dungeon Master's Guide and the Avernus Chase Complications table.

AVERNUS CHASE COMPLICATIONS

d20	Complication
1	A dune made of bones and teeth is in your path. Use 10 feet of movement to go around it or make a DC 12 Dexterity (Acrobatics) check to move over it. On a failed check, you fall prone and take 5 (1d10) piercing damage.
2	A bubbling tar pit is in your path. Use 15 feet of movement to go around it or make a DC 12 Strength (Athletics) check to leap over it. On a failed check, you slip into the pit and take 11 (2d10) fire damage.
3	A puddle of demon ichor is in your path. Use 10 feet of movement to go around it or make a DC 10 Strength (Athletics) check to leap across it. On a failed check, you land in the pool (see chapter 3 of Baldur's Gate: Descent into Avernus ).
4	A pit of quicksand is before you. Make a DC 10 Wisdom (Perception) check to notice it. If the check succeeds, you avoid it. If the check fails, you fall into the hazard (see "Wilderness Hazards" in chapter 5 of the Dungeon Master's Guide ).
5	A group of nupperibos (see appendix A) are in your path. Use 5 feet of movement to go around them or make a DC 11 Dexterity (Stealth) check to sneak by. On a failed check, one of the fiends makes a claw attack against you (+5 to hit; 6 (1d6 + 3) piercing damage).
6	A hell hound chases after you.
7	A small stream of water from the River Styx is in your path. Make a DC 10 Strength (Athletics) check to jump over it. On a failed check, you touch the waters of the River Styx (see chapter 3 of Baldur's Gate: Descent into Avernus ).
8	A sudden chasm catches you by surprise. Make a DC 10 Dexterity saving throw to navigate the impediment. On a failed save, you fall 1d4 × 10 feet, taking 3 (1d6) bludgeoning damage per 10 feet fallen as normal, and land prone.
9	You run through a ruin with uneven ground. Make a DC 10 Dexterity (Acrobatics) check. On a failed check, you fall prone.
10	An infernal war machine rushes toward you. Make a DC 18 Dexterity saving throw. On a failed save, you take 28 (8d6) bludgeoning damage and fall prone.
11–20	No complication.

DEMON OR DEVIL PRISONER

The characters come upon a demon band (see "Demon Band") or a devil squad (see "Devil Squad") that captured and are interrogating a devil or demon respectively. Roll or choose on the Fiend Prisoner table to determine the type of fiend they have captured.

The fiend has only a quarter of its hit points remaining. If the prisoner is a demon notices the characters, it begs for help, promising to serve the characters. If the characters free the demon, it follows them. Roll any die at the start of each hour it spends with the characters. If an even number is rolled, the demon remains loyal to the characters. If an odd odd number is rolled, the demon betrays the characters the first chance it gets. The demon prisoner also betrays the characters if they encounter more demons.

If the prisoner is a devil and notices the characters, it offers a deal for anything in its power in exchange for the characters fighting for their freedom.

FIEND PRISONER

d6	Demon	Devil
1	Quasit	Imp
2	Barlgura	Spined devil
3	Chasme	Bearded devil
4	Vrock	Barbed devil
5	Hezrou	Chain devil
6	Glabrezu	Bone devil

DERELICT WAR MACHINE

The characters see a Tormentor model infernal war machine (see appendix B of Baldur's Gate: Descent into Avernus). The front of the buggy is covered by a sculpted bronze devil face with a red crystal tube emerging from the gaping mouth, resembling a tongue.

The whole vehicle is rusted, and the rear of the buggy has been torn away completely. The engine has been destroyed and cannot be repaired.

SOUL CANON

Any character examining the machine and who makes a successful DC 15 Intelligence (Arcana) check determines that the crystal tube is a weapon in working order that can be detached from the main chassis.

Another successful DC 15 Intelligence (Arcana) check safely detaches the tube. On a failed roll the tube explodes and everyone within 10 feet must make a DC 12 Dexterity saving throw, taking 5 (1d10) piercing damage on a failed save from shrapnel.

The tube is a small soul canon. It is 2 inches wide, 3 feet long, and weighs 25 pounds. It has a range of 200/600 feet and inflicts 8d10 force damage on a hit. It is a martial ranged weapon. A soul coin is needed to fire the canon and is consumed in the process.

TREASURE

Inside the buggy are two seats holding the badly decomposed corpses of a pair of cambions. A successful DC 5 Wisdom (Perception) check locates a soul coin in a leather purse and a platinum ring on one of the cambion's skeletal fingers. This ring burns the sign of Asmodeus onto any surface.

DEVIL SQUAD

The characters encounter a squad of devils patrolling the battlegrounds looking for a fight. Each devil squad has a leader and troops. Roll or choose twice on the Devil Squad table to determine both.

When the characters encounter the squad, there is a 50 percent chance the fiends do not attack right away. The squad leader may offer a deal to let the characters pass without further incident or not see the characters as any kind of threat.

If a fight breaks out, the devils flee when more than half their number fall.

DEVIL SQUAD

d10	Leader	Troops
1–5	1 barbed devil	1d4 + 1 spined devils
6–9	1 chain devil	1d4 + 1 bearded devils
10	1 bone devil	1d4 + 1 merregons (see appendix A)

DRETCH MARKS

A narrow crack in the ground here opens to a large cavern beneath filled with sixty-six dretches that attack anyone who comes within reach. Any character with a passive Wisdom (Perception) score of 13 or higher notices movement in the dark crack, but anyone else is surprised by the attack. The dretches attempt to grapple the characters and drag them into the cavern to be torn apart.

The dretches, survivors of a great battle, have caught and killed numerous victims. Amidst bone and clothing scraps at the bottom of their cavern is treasure. Roll a d12 and consult the following table. The characters find everything up to and including the entry rolled.

d12	Item
1	A single caltrop made from bone
2	Bottle of ink
3	2000 cp
4	800 sp
5	60 gp
6	An iron and gold holy symbol devoted to an unknown god (worth 100 gp)
7	Pole (10-foot)
8	Ear horn of hearing (see appendix B)
9	Vial of basic poison
10	Moon-touched longsword (see appendix B)
11	Two soul coins
12	Boots of speed

FIENDISH BETRAYAL

A wounded female human knight who escaped Elturel named Bera Tallen approaches the characters, requesting their help. She explains she barely escaped while one of her group of escapees betrayed and murdered the rest. Bera doesn't know why, but the traitor, who is not far behind, now chases her. If the party agrees to help, roll a d4 to determine the nature of the encounter:

1. The traitor, a male human evoker (see appendix A) named Pergon Uro, has fallen under the mind twisting effects of the plane, which has changed his alignment to lawful evil. Pero can be convinced of this with a successful DC 14 Charisma (Persuasion) check. Casting the dispel evil and good spell on the traitor also removes the effect.
2. The traitor is a cambion in human form who took the place of the group's real companion days ago. It carries an uncommon magical item of the DM's choice.
3. Bera is actually a warlock of the fiend (appendix A) who is has fallen under the pervasive evil of the plane. She betrayed her group and is trying to lure the party into a trap. Once the party confronts the false traitor, a lawful good female human priest named Teru Kang, the warlock attempts to kill them all in the name of her patron. Casting the dispel evil and good spell on Bera removes the pervasive evil effects. Bera carries an amulet of proof against detection and location.
4. Bera and the "traitor" are both cambions attempting to hunt and kill each other. Bera is a spawn of Graz'zt, and the other is a soldier for the Nine Hells. Bera carries an uncommon magical item of the DM's choice.

HELL HOUND PACK

A pack of 2d6 hell hounds roams Avernus, looking for injured and easy prey. If the hounds notice the characters, they attack. Each fights until reduced to 10 hit points then flees.

INFERNAL PURSUIT

War is hell, and the Nine Hells are at war. If the endless Blood War were to spill into the Material Plane, all of Toril would become as inhospitable as Avernus. While traveling across the wastes, travelers must beware roving bands of demonic pillagers, and the devils that hunt them.

Roll a d4 to determine which marauding demons the characters encounter and which devils are pursuing them. Once the characters encounter the demons, the pursuing devils appear on initiative count 20 of the next round of combat. These devils are loyal servants of Zariel, and once the devils destroy the demons, they turn their attention upon the characters. If the characters are enemies of Zariel, they attack; if not, they try to make a deal with these hapless mortals.

INFERNAL PURSUIT ENCOUNTERS

d4 Marauders and Pursuers

- |   |   |
|---|---|
| 1 | The marauders are four rampaging dretches pursued by two no-nonsense imps .   |
| 2 | The marauders are six quasits who stole war machine parts, pursued by four spined devils .  |
| 3 | The marauders are a barlgura ridden by a quasit that killed a devil lieutenant, pursued by a bearded devil riding a nightmare . |
| 4 | The marauders are a pair of vrocks clutching a shiny idol worth 500 gp while flying at full speed away from a bone devil .                    |

POOL OF Duplicity

A mirthful arcanaloth named Vriz'blath perches on a crag overlooking a pool of bubbling green ooze, not unlike the Progenitor Goo (see chapter 3 of Baldur's Gate: Descent into Avernus). When the characters approach, Vriz'blath casts mind blank upon itself, then calls out to the adventurers and asks them to behold the Pool of Infernal Marvels.

Every 30 seconds, on the dot, a creature pops out of the pools, then splashes back in. The creature is rarely the same; some examples of creatures could include a three-eyed fish, an abyssal chicken, a perfect sphere of green goop, or some other unusual creature.

Vriz'blath asks the characters if they wish to make a wager; if two different creatures pop out of the goop in a row, the characters win the bet. If two identical creatures pop out of the goo in a row, they lose. The arcanaloth has a total of 1,000 gp and five soul coins to wager.

The trick is, however, there are no creatures hopping out of the pool. Every minute, Vriz'blath secretly casts minor illusion, subtly performing the spell's somatic components while holding a tiny bit of fleece. A creature can see through the illusion by making a successful DC 17 Intelligence (Investigation) check as an action.

Vriz'blath lets the characters win the first bet to get them confident, then sets up a vicious losing streak. If the arcanaloth's deception is revealed, it casts chain lightning in a panic, then finger of death, and finally dimension door to flee if its assailants are undeterred.

POOL OF ICHOR

The ongoing Blood War has left substantial pools of demon ichor all over Avernus. The pool at this location is 50 feet across and fills the end of the ravine. Characters may choose to collect the ichor in a container as it can be used for infernal war machine fuel (see appendix B of Baldur's Gate: Descent into Avernus). It takes one round to fill a skin or flask with this liquid.

Unfortunately, horrifying things can form in the ichor. Each round that the pool is disturbed there is a 25 percent chance of a hostile demonic creature emerging. Roll a d4 to determine the creature:

1. A chasme
2. A glabrezu
3. A hezrou
4. A vrock

Only one fiend inhabits the pool.

POPPET MASTERS

A coven of night hags clusters around a table, sewing together small doll-like "toys." They are making poppets (see appendix B), which are dolls that can be infused with the properties of a person and thereby used to manipulate or hurt a person from a distance. One puppet can be purchased for one soul coin. To make a puppet, the character must supply the hags with an item that belonged to the person they want the puppet to impersonate: this can be a scrap of clothing, a lock of hair, a piece of jewelry, or any item that denotes sentiment or identity.

STIRGE SWARM

A swarm of 10d8 stirges gorge themselves on the bodies of 3d6 deceased commoners who escaped from Elturel. The stirges ignore the characters as long as they don't come within 50 feet of the beasts, otherwise the stirges attack. Roll a d4 to determine what treasures the commoners had:

d4	Item
1	Assorted coins worth a total of 10d8 gp
2	A purse containing 5 moonstones (50 gp each)
3	A marble statuette of Torm (200 gp)
4	A periapt of wound closure

CHAPTER 2: RIVER STYX ENCOUNTERS

THE FOLLOWING ENCOUNTERS CAN OCCUR AS THE characters rest or travel on or near the River Styx in Avernus. See Baldur's Gate: Descent into Avernus for a description of the river and its effects.

ENCOUNTER DESCRIPTIONS

Following are the encounters in alphabetical order.

ARCHMAGE ALCHEMIST

Vandalo Urond (neutral evil male human archmage) stands on the banks of the River Styx using the mage hand spell to fill vials with Stygian water. Vandalo is a Red Wizard alchemist in his sixties with a shaved head covered in tattoos. He uses the Stygian water to create new potions. When speaking about magic or magic items, Vandalo gets excited and shares as much information as possible.

If Vandalo sees the characters, he waves them down, asking if they'd like to see his wares. Vandalo carries a Heward's handy haversack filled with all manner of potions. He is willing to sell characters any common, uncommon, or rare potions from chapter 7 of the Dungeon Master's Guide for the prices listed on the Vandalo's Potions table. If the characters buy a potion, he's happy to cast the identify spell on any objects they have for free.

If the characters attack Vandalo, he immediately flees, using the teleport spell to get back to Thay.

VANDALO'S POTIONS

Potion Rarity	Price
Common	50 gp
Uncommon	100 gp
Rare	500 gp

CAVE OF THE RATIONALIST

The characters pass a narrow cave, and a quavering voice calls out, “Is someone there?” Inside is the ghost of a bald, craggy-faced man. He introduces himself as Professor Horatio Hiddlethwaite, and says he is from a place called “Sid Knee” in the land of “Ustraya.” He has not heard of any of the cities or lands that the characters know.

Horatio says he recognizes this place as “the classic conception of the Nine Hells,” but since he is a rationalist and doesn’t believe in the Nine Hells, he is convinced he is suffering from a delusion.

HORATIO’S STORY

Horatio was a vain and selfish man in life whose soul floated down to Avernus upon his untimely death. Normally the souls of the damned fall in the River Styx. However, Horatio was only lightly weighed down by sin and was blown off course by a breeze. He has been hiding out ever since.

HORATIO’S HELP

Horatio is cowardly but has done some exploration. He can tell the characters the location of one nearby hazard or other significant landmark, but the characters must provide him with some emotional gratification first. They can do that by acknowledging his superior intellect, validating his view that this is all a delusion, expressing great sympathy for his misfortunes.

Horatio refuses to travel with the characters, as this would “pander” to his delusion.

CELESTIAL SPY

Allisatilmia, a planetar, is in Avernus to watch the Blood War and Zariel. The angel has orders from superiors in Mount Celestia to remain passive in the conflict and not interfere directly. She stays invisible as she watches the characters unless the characters travel with Lulu or carry the Sword of Zariel, in which case Allisatilmia appears before them. The angel introduces herself and asks if the characters plan to redeem Zariel (and because of her Divine Awareness trait, she knows the truth of their answer). If the characters answer with honesty that they plan to redeem Zariel, the angel bestows a blessing of protection on the character who answers (see “Blessings” in chapter 7 of the Dungeon Master’s Guide) before turning invisible and going back to her work. If the characters attack, the angel flees.

DAYS OF HUNTER

The characters hear a disembodied voice say, “Have you encountered an elven vampire in your travels?” The speaker is an invisible orthon (see appendix A) named Balioch, who has been tasked by Bel to locate Jander Sunstar (see chapter 3 of Baldur’s Gate: Descent into Avernus). The orthon is currently invisible.

If the characters know where Jander is and tell the orthon, it heads there immediately. Otherwise, it decides to allow itself a few hours of recreation, and says:

“I will give you a reasonable chance. You may have a one-hour head start before I come for you. If you can evade me for four hours, you may live.”

The orthon then waits for the characters to leave. When they are 200 feet away, it fires a tracking bolt from its infernal crossbow at the character with the lowest apparent AC. If it misses, it keeps firing until it hits.

ORTHON TACTICS

When the hour is up, the orthon comes after the party. After locating them, it plays cat-and-mouse with them for a while, firing concussion bolts ahead of them, or entangling the weakest member of the party and taunting the rest to leave that person behind.

When it tires of this game it sets out to destroy the party. Its tactic is to weaken them from a distance with concussion and acid bolts, before tying them down with entanglement, then closing to finish them off with its infernal dagger.

TREASURE

The orthon has five soul coins.

DEMON SKIFF

The characters encounter a skiff of demons looking for a fight. Roll or choose on the Demon Crew table to determine what demons are on the boat. These demons attack characters they notice. Each flees when it is reduced to half its hit points.

The boat has the statistics of a keelboat (see “Owning a Ship” in chapter 5 of the Dungeon Master’s Guide) and is piloted by a merrenoloth (see appendix A) that tries to stay out of combat. The demons pay the merrenoloth 50 gp a day to ferry them. If the characters offer the merrenoloth more than this, the yugoloth betrays the demons.

DEMON CREW

d6	Demons
1	4d10 dretches
2	1 bargura and 2d6 dretches
3	2 barguras and 2d4 manes
4	1 hezrou and 1d4 + 2 dretches
5	1 hezrou and 2d4 manes
6	1 glabrezu and 2d4 manes

DEVIL PATROL BOAT

The characters encounter a boat of devils patrolling the river looking for a fight. Roll or choose on the Devil Crew table to determine the number and type of devils on the boat. The boat has the statistics of a keelboat (see “Owning a Ship” in chapter 5 of the Dungeon Master’s Guide) and is piloted by a merrenoloth (see appendix A) that tries to stay out of combat.

When the characters encounter the boat, there is a 50 percent chance the fiends do not attack right away. The devils may offer a deal to let the characters pass without further incident. If a fight breaks out, the devils flee when more than half their number fall.

The devils pay the merrenoloth 100 gp a day to ferry them. If the characters offer the merrenoloth more than this, the yugoloth betrays the devils.

DEVIL CREW

d10	Crew
1–5	1d4 + 2 bearded devils
6–8	2 barbed devils and 2d4 lemures
9–10	1 chain devil and 2d4 lemures

DROWNED SATCHEL

A dyed-green leather satchel has washed upon the river's shore. Inside is a small pouch filled with dried wildflowers, a gold locket, and a bloated, waterlogged journal. Inside the locket is a portrait of a young man. The journal is mostly unreadable, but there is a name, "Ophelia," inscribed on the inside of the cover.

TREASURE

The locket is worth 15 gp.

FAPPLESTAMP TWINS

The rocky ground before the party erupts as an enormous bulette burrows out. The bulette goes unnaturally still, as if frozen, and the characters hear a whirring sound that slowly winds down.

Give the characters a round to react. After that a hatch on top of the bulette pops open and two neutral rock gnome mages, one male and one female, stick their heads out. They introduce themselves as Zook and Ella Fapplestamp.

THE FAPPLESTAMP STORY

The Fapplestamps are twins from Faerûn. Zook is a successful miner, while Ella is a brilliant artificer who converted a dead bulette into this extraordinary mining machine. With it, they enjoyed enormous success, but they wanted more.

Zook became convinced that the ground in Avernus would be full of diamonds. They arranged for a Red Wizard to teleport them here with their amazing machine. The same wizard was meant to be meet them a tenday later to bring them home, but missed the rendezvous.

Believing themselves abandoned, the Fapplestamps have travelled across Avernus for the last few months, seeking a way home while continuing to mine for diamonds.

They buy provisions from the Wandering Emporium. In combat, their machine has the same statistics as a regular bulette. Despite their rather dire situation, the Fapplestamps are both unflappably optimistic.

THE FAPPLESTAMP OFFER

Assuming a friendly dialogue is established, the Fapplestamps offer to take the characters to any one location in Avernus in return for their help getting back to Faerûn.

Although bulette is enormous, much of the inside of the creature is filled with complex machinery. There is room for the characters inside the machine, but it is cozy.

TREASURE

As well as various provisions and tools, the Fapplestamps have 5,000 gp worth of rough diamonds, as well as ten polished and cut diamonds worth 400 gp each.

FOR THE GLORY OF YSGARD

The Heroic Domains of Ysgard are home to the souls of those who can imagine no greater afterlife than valorous combat unending. A group of warriors from that plane of eternal combat have traveled to Avernus in search of greater glory still. In the minds of these warriors, bards will sing songs about the heroic deeds they perform in Avernus in the beer halls of Ysgard for all eternity.

Dressed in animal hides and mighty horned helmets, these overzealous warriors dock on the banks of the Styx in a mighty galley the moment they see a group of devils, and attack all in sight. When they see the characters, they assume they are also foes, and attack instantly. A character that tries to convince the Ysgardians that they aren't enemies can make a DC 20 Charisma (Persuasion) check as an action, halting their attack on a success.

Roll a d4 to determine what kind of warriors emerge from the Ysgardian galley. If the warriors are bested in combat or convinced that their attack was mistaken, their leader gives the characters a horn of Valhalla that can summon spectral warriors of Ysgard to aid in battle.

YSGARDIAN WARRIORS

d4 Warriors

1	2d4 + 2 berserkers led by a bandit captain named Gallart. The horn of Valhalla is silver.
2	3d4 + 3 berserkers led by a gladiator named Hilda. The horn of Valhalla is brass.
3	4d4 + 4 berserkers led by a frost giant named Grogdiabelle. The horn of Valhalla is bronze.
4	5d4 + 5 berserkers led by an empyrean named Thrysus. The horn of Valhalla is iron.

GRAMMA VALOR'S BARGE

A night hag known as Gramma Valor drives her supply barge, Pus Purveyor, through Avernus upon the River Styx, selling supplies and smuggling contraband across enemy lines for the highest bidder. She has no allegiances, save for her loyalty to her own profits. Her barge is crewed by her "sons," a group of ten unpleasant rutterkins (see appendix A). If the characters encounter them multiple times, Valor's ship has 1d4 fewer rutterkins aboard each time, as the Blood War claims them.

Gramma Valor's supply barge has all types of weapons, armor, and tools in the Player's Handbook available for purchase, as well as several special items. Roll 1d4 to determine what type of special goods are available, rolled on the random magic items tables in chapter 7 of the Dungeon Master's Guide.

GRAMMA VALOR'S SPECIAL GOODIES

d4 Item

1	Roll four times on Magic Item Table B. She sells these items for 1,000 gp each, or 500 gp for a single-use item.
2	Roll three times on Magic Item Table C. She sells these items for 1,500 gp each, or 750 gp for a single-use item.
3	Roll twice on Magic Item Table F. She sells these items for 2,000 gp each, or 1,000 gp for a single-use item.
4	Roll once on Magic Item Table G. She sells these items for 5,000 gp each, or 2,500 gp for a single-use item.

HYDROLOOTH

A hydrolooth (see appendix A) swims on the river, looking for someone to hire it. If it spots the characters, the yugoloth approaches and makes a pitch to be hired as a guide and guardian. The hydrolooth asks for 500 gp a day, but a successful DC 14 Charisma (Persuasion) check convinces the fiend to lower its rates to 250 gp a day. If the characters agree, the hydrolooth serves them loyally each day provided it is paid and another party doesn't offer the fiend a better deal (which the fiend immediately accepts).

If the characters refuse the hydrolooth's offer, the fiend attacks, hoping to force them into an agreement. The hydrolooth fights until the characters accept a deal or it is reduced to 30 hit points then flees.

I'M THE CAPTAIN NOW

An abandoned boat floats slowly along the shore of the River Styx. If a character approaches within 20 feet of the boat, enemies appear and attack. Roll 1d4 to determine the type of enemy:

1. 1d3 hell hounds
2. 4d6 lemures
3. 1d4 spined devils
4. 1 mezzoloth

CURSED OARS

Inside the boat is a pair of smooth wooden oars. A detect magic spell marks them as holding a cursed enchantment. A character holding both oars must make a successful DC 15 Wisdom saving throw or be affected by the fiendish curse. For the next 24 hours, the cursed creature is at disadvantage to Intelligence and Wisdom saving throws.

In addition, they are poisoned whenever they are more than 100 feet away from the River Styx.

At the end of the 24 hours, the creature is transformed into a merrenoloth (see appendix A) contracted as the new captain of the abandoned ship. Though the oars and ship are immune to damage or magical effects, a character can be freed from the curse with a remove curse spell or similar effect.

LOST ASSASSIN

Mei Wind (chaotic evil female human assassin affected by the feeblemind spell) wanders the banks of the River Styx wearing a blank expression. She attacks creatures that attack her first, but has a pleasant disposition otherwise. She remembers nothing about her personal history including her name, how she came to Avernus, and why she is in the Nine Hells. She cannot speak or communicate in any intelligible way, but if the characters are kind to her, Mei Wind travels with and aids them.

In truth Mei Wind is cultist of Baphomet who came to Avernus to prove herself to the Horned King. She believed if she killed Baphomet's enemies, the demon prince would reward her by transforming her into a minotaur. That plan went awry when a devil cast Mei Wind into the River Styx, causing her to lose all her memories. If Mei Wind's memories are restored, her mission comes back to her. She plays coy, but betrays the characters the first chance she gets, hoping to sacrifice them to Baphomet.

Mei Wind has a tattoo of a labyrinth on her back, which is only visible if she takes off her armor. A successful DC 15 Intelligence (Religion) check reveals elaborate labyrinths are associated with the demon lord Baphomet.

MALIGNANT TRIBUTARY

The characters' way is blocked by a slow-moving stream of bloody sludge that feeds into the Styx. The local fiends call it the Malignant Tributary. Rivers and pools like it well up from the ground all over Avernus, providing the devils with a ready source of nourishment.

The tributary is 20 feet wide and 9 feet deep at the midpoint. Swimming in it causes no harm, although it is quite repulsive.

Any character drinking from the river must make a DC 12 Constitution saving throw. On a failed save, the character takes a short-term madness condition (see "Madness" in chapter 8 of the Dungeon Master's Guide).

On a successful save, the character gains one of these infernal traits (roll a d6):

1. The creature gains darkvision out to a range of 120 feet.
2. The creature can speak and understand Infernal.
3. The creature can communicate telepathically with any creature that understand a language within 120 feet.
4. The creature gains resistance to cold damage.
5. The creature gains resistance to bludgeoning, piercing, and slashing from nonmagical attacks that aren't silvered.
6. The creature gains immunity to poison damage and the poisoned condition.

The trait lasts for 99 minutes. Any creature that drinks from the river again before taking a long rest automatically fails the saving throw.

NAVAL BATTLE

A devil patrol boat (see "Devil Patrol Boat") battles a demon skiff (see "Demon Skiff") in the path of the characters. Roll any die. On an even result, the devils are winning the battle. On an odd result, the demons are winning.

DEMONS

The demons attack the characters and devils alike. Each flees when reduced to half its hit points.

DEVILS

If the devils are losing the battle and notice the characters, the fiends offer a deal to get the characters to fight for them. Otherwise the devils take no heed of the characters until the demons are defeated or the characters attack the devils first. If the characters have no deal with the devils, once the demons are put down, the devils turn and attack the characters. The devils flee when more than half their number fall.

ONSHORE BARRAGE

A group of fiends on the banks of the river notice the characters and hurl projectiles and fire at them. Each character must succeed on a DC 15 Dexterity saving throw or take 22 (4d10) piercing damage and 22 (4d10) fire damage.

If the characters are on a boat, the creature piloting the boat must make a Dexterity check with vehicles (water). On a failure, the ship takes 22 (4d10) piercing damage and 22 (4d10) fire damage and catches on fire. While on fire, the ship and all creatures touching it take 5 (1d10) fire damage on initiative count 0. On a success, the ship takes half damage and is not on fire.

RELEASED

While traveling the banks of the River Styx, the characters hear a plaintive, inhuman wail, followed by the crashing of waves and a peal of thunder. A kraken flails in the shallows of the Styx while a crew of yugoloths upon a galley made of pitch-black wood sails beside it, hurling harpoons.

A crew of ten mezzoloths commanded by a merrenoloth (see appendix A) are trying to use their tridents and cloudkill spells to subdue the kraken. The kraken has been reduced to half its hit points by the brawl, and is using its Lightning Storm action to try and destroy the yugoloths' boat. The kraken must make a DC 15 Intelligence saving throw at the start of each of its turns to resist the forgetful effects of the River Styx, as described in chapter 2 of the Dungeon Master's Guide.

If the characters don't get involved in the conflict, the kraken sinks the yugoloth galley after 1 minute of combat, unless it succumbs to the waters of the Styx, then leaves the river. When the kraken pulls itself out of the Styx, it crawls across Avernus searching for a lair where it can gather allies and plot its escape from the Nine Hells. Once the kraken finds a lair, regional effects begin to warp the area around it after 1d10 days.

The kraken is named Karraquas, and it doesn't know how it found itself in the River Styx. It only knows that it was tearing apart a ship on the high seas one minute, and found itself in Avernus the next. If the characters are willing to become allies of the kraken, it helps them in their quest in exchange for favors, for the air in Avernus is dry and deadly to a creature of the deep sea.

SOUL SHOWER

A huge number of screaming, translucent, humanoids shower down from the sky into the River Styx. These are the souls of the damned, recently deceased and now going to their fate. There are  $4d6 \times 10$  souls in total, and it takes 1 minute for them all to fall into the river. Another 1 minute after the first, the souls begin crawling out of the river, transformed into leumures. They emerge at a rate of 2d6 per round and immediately attack any characters within sight.

WANDERING SPIRIT

The characters spot a lost ghost (of a humanoid race of the DM's choice) following the banks of the River Styx, trying to get out of Avernus to a safer plane of existence and better afterlife. Roll any die:

- On an even result, the ghost hails the characters and begs for an escort to the edge of Avernus so it can leave the Nine Hells. If the characters help, the grateful ghost gives one of the characters a charm of feather falling (see "Charms" in chapter 7 of the Dungeon Master's Guide).
- On an odd result, the ghost has been driven mad by its time in Avernus and attacks the characters, fighting to the death.

YEENOGHU'S MONSTER

If Crokek'toeck (see appendix A) has been freed from the Bleeding Citadel (see chapter 4 of Baldur's Gate: Descent into Avernus), the characters find this monster in their path. If the monster is imprisoned or dead, treat this result as no encounter.

CHAPTER 3: ELTUREL ENCOUNTERS

THE FOLLOWING ENCOUNTERS CAN OCCUR AS THE characters rest or travel the streets of Elturel while it is in Avernus. See chapter 2 of Baldur's Gate: Descent into Avernus for a description of the city and its locations.

ENCOUNTER DESCRIPTIONS

Following are the encounters in alphabetical order.

A RIVER RAN THROUGH IT

Alta Tron, a chaotic neutral female human enchanter (see appendix A), approaches the characters, introducing herself as a mystical engineer and claiming to have developed a device that can allow a group safe passage across the rift separating the east and west sides of the city. If the characters agree to help Alta successfully test the device, she agrees to build the characters one for their own.

Though extremely skilled, the engineer is a bit mad and suffers from bouts of delusions of grandeur. A successful DC 14 Wisdom (Insight) check notices something a bit off about her.

The device is intended to create an invisible bridge across the rift that lasts for five minutes. Examination of the rune-covered metallic device reveals no useful information, as there is no way of surmising how it was built.

THE EXPERIMENT

When activated, the device indeed creates a magical bridge that cannot be seen by any means other than with truesight. The bridge, unknowingly to the party, extends only 50 feet across. A character crossing the bridge must make a successful DC 12 Dexterity saving throw to notice. In addition, after five rounds, the bridge begins to collapse. A successful DC 13 Wisdom (Perception) check notices small wisps of smoke coming out of the machine, while a successful DC 13 Intelligence (Arcana) check discovers there are only moments left before the device fails. Characters on the bridge when the device begins to fail can rush back to solid ground with a successful DC 14 Strength (Athletics) or Dexterity (Acrobatics) check. Characters that fail and cannot fly, levitate, or teleport fall several hundred feet into the River Styx (see chapter 3 of Baldur's Gate: Descent into Avernus).

ATTRACTING THE GUARDS

During the test, there's a 1 in 10 chance the party is noticed by the guards stationed on Torm's Bridges, attracting a patrol of 2d4 spined devils.

TREASURE

If the characters attempted to help Alta in good faith, they're rewarded with an uncommon magical item of the DM's choice.

ABANDONED TRUNK

There is a small, dusty trunk sitting on the side of the street, made from gray wood with a tarnished bronze latch and no lock. Roll a d4 to determine the contents.

1. A set of antique silverware, worth 240 gp.
2. A complete set of the Encyclopedia Esoterica, worth 150 gp to the right buyer.
3. The trunk is a mimic with 90 hit points.
4. As the characters approach the trunk, a desperate-looking human gladiator with a tattooed face pushes past and says, "I saw it first!" Inside is the corpse of a small dog.

ALCHEMIST SHOP

The characters pass a building that emits a sweet smell. The building's locked door can be opened with a successful DC 15 Dexterity check by a character proficient with thieves' tools, or smashed down with a DC 20 Strength (Athletics) check.

Once inside, the characters see the building was obviously an alchemist's shop. No one is inside, and most of the chemicals and equipment were destroyed.

TREASURE

There is a single intact cask brimming with alchemist's fire. There is enough liquid in the cask to fill ten glass vials, which can be found with a quick search of shelves. Alternatively, the entire cask can be detonated, having the same effect as a fireball spell (spell save DC 15).

EXECUTION

Three bearded devils make preparations to execute Tyara Twinfall (lawful good female human priest with no spell slots remaining) by hanging her with a chain from a building. The devils caught Tyara, a priestess of Torm in her sixties, sprinkling holy water on corpses in Elturel's graveyard (area E7) to prevent them from coming back as undead. They plan to display Tyara's corpse as a warning to the rest of the citizens of Elturel.

If the devils notice the characters, they attack. When one devil remains, it flees.

If the characters free Tyara, she thanks them and tells them the dead are rising in Elturel's graveyard. The priestess begs the characters to do something about the undead if they have not already explored the graveyard (see chapter 2 in Baldur's Gate: Descent into Avernus). After she chats with the characters Tyara leaves to find a safe place to rest.

FIENDISH TRAP

The characters come across a human with a rope around his neck hanging from a tree. His hands grasp the rope at his throat, allowing him to breathe, but his is obviously losing his fight to survive.

Two barghests (see appendix A) in goblin form hide and watch the struggling victim, hoping that his predicament draws out other survivors for the pair to kill, extort, or torment. They were planning to sneak into Elturel and eat some innocent souls at the fateful moment when the city came to Avernus.

The human is Alihor (neutral good commoner), a tailor who survived the trip to the Nine Hells but could not find a safe place to hide. He is cowardly and traumatized by the experience.

FORBIDDEN DELIGHTS

The party finds a torn piece of parchment on the road depicting an advertisement for a magician-run pastry shop called Forbidden Delights. If the party heads to the shop, they find it locked, but after one round, the proprietor opens the door and beckons them to come inside.

Bulmor, the human proprietor, and his two sisters, Tevra and Maribe, claim to be hiding from devil patrols, but are actually three dybbuk (see appendix A) spies that killed the real owners and possessed their corpses. They attempt to lure the party far enough into the shop before locking the door and attacking.

A character who spends 1 minute searching the shop and makes a successful DC 12 Intelligence (Investigation) check finds 1d4 intact magical pastries, each with the effects of a specific potion when they're consumed. As they're unmarked, their effects on are unknown. Upon consumption, roll a d6 to determine the pastry's effects:

d6 Effect

- |    |                                  |
|----|----------------------------------|
| 1. | potion of greater healing |
| 2. | potion of diminution      |
| 3. | potion of poison          |
| 4. | elixir of health          |
| 5. | potion of growth          |
| 6. | philter of love           |

HELLFIRE BURNING

A group of commoners are gathered outside a building ablaze with red and green flames. They tell the party they heard cries for help coming from within. If the party chooses to investigate, roll a d4 to determine the nature of the fire.

1. The building was set ablaze as a casualty from a recent battle. A strange hellfire burns from within.

Three commoners are trapped inside different rooms in the building. Each one can be located and reached within two rounds with a successful DC 14 Wisdom (Perception) check. A character inside the building must make a successful DC 13 Dexterity saving throw at the start of each round or take 3d6 fire damage from the writhing hellfire. Commoners not located within 2 minutes perish in the fire.

2. A barbed devil is inside the building, pursuing two commoners fleeing it.
3. The fire is caused by a backlash from a summoning ritual performed by a demonic cult fanatic and three cultists. A summoned barlgura is within as well. The DM can choose the demon's level of alliance with the cultists.
4. Two rounds after anyone enters the building, the fire erupts in a catastrophic explosion. Each creature within must make a DC 13 Dexterity saving throw, taking 17 (5d6) fire damage on a failed save, or half as much on a successful one. Climbing out of the debris takes three rounds. Each round, creatures in the debris must succeed on a DC 12 Constitution saving throw or take 10 (3d6) poison damage from smoke and debris inhalation.

HELLRIDER UPRIISING

A group of three Hellriders (knights) each mounted on a warhorse are losing a battle with six spined devils. If the devils notice the characters, four of them attack the characters while the others continue to battle the Hellriders.

If the characters aid the Hellriders in defeating their foes, the knights thank the characters, giving them any advice about the city they have to offer before riding off in search of other fiends (see chapter 2 in Baldur's Gate: Descent into Avernus).

If the characters do not aid the Hellriders, the Hellriders lose the battle.

INJURED KNIGHT

As the characters turn a corner, they see a human knight fell a bearded devil, just as the knight is struck with the devil's glaive. The knight falls even though she does not look very injured.

The knight is Beryl Corth (lawful good female human knight), and she is suffering from an infernal wound from the devil's glaive. The wound continues bleeding (1d10 damage per round) until it is treated with a successful DC 12 Wisdom (Medicine) check or Beryl receives magical healing. She has 40 hit points when the characters encounter her.

If the characters can save her, she tells them that she has been wandering the city, looking for survivors and fighting monsters. She knows little else of the happenings elsewhere.

JAILBREAK

Cries for help emerge from a building bearing a sign that reads, "Elturel Jail." When the characters enter, they see five humans in a cell. Four of the humans assault the fifth who is curled up in the corner.

These five were spending the night in jail when Elturel came to Avernus. The guards perished, and they have not been able to escape their locked and barred cell. Some kind survivors have brought them water, but now they are out of food and no one has come by recently. Four of the prisoners have decided that the only means of survival is making a meal of the fifth.

The prisoners (commoners) can be talked out of their plans with a successful DC 10 Charisma (Persuasion) check, or if the characters offer them food or freedom. The cell's lock can be picked with a successful DC 15 Dexterity check with thieves' tools.

KEEPER OF THE KEYS

A chain devil wandering the streets of Elturel named Luchetto makes eye contact with a character and communicates the following message telepathically: "Keys for sale. You interested?"

Luchetto wears a leather coat lined with keys of all shapes and sizes, made of various materials. Some are shiny and brand new; others are rusted and splattered with blood. Luchetto is a “collector” and hopes that someday he can find a key to unbind his chains. He appreciates the craft that goes into key-making and wants to make some easy money. Each key costs 1 sp. Luchetto is also willing to trade a key for a key. There is a 50 percent chance Luchetto has a key that could help the characters.

KID WARLOCK

A child wearing dark robes inscribed with silver sigils approaches the characters. She claims to be a warlock and demands they help her. Roll a d4 to determine her identity.

1. She is an ordinary child (noncombatant), but the stress of the situation has led her poor mind to imagine she is a powerful warlock. She commands the characters to procure a large supply of boiled sweets for her, or face her patron’s wrath.
2. She is not a child but a halfling warlock of the archfey (see appendix A). While fighting a group of ogres near Daggerdale, a miscast misty step spell saw her accidentally transported to Elturel just before it shifted to Avernus. She has no money or supplies but offers to help the characters achieve their immediate goal if they promise to take her back home when they leave.
3. She is a warlock of the archfey (see appendix A) and a child prodigy with magic. Her father (along with 4d6 other commoners) is being held by four bearded devils in an old villa in the southern part of the city. The devils plan to sell them all into slavery. She pleads with the characters to help her free her father and offers magical favors in return.
4. She is a succubus disguised as a very young warlock. She claims to have been orphaned in the disaster and offers to help the party if they let her join them. She plans to secretly charm one of the characters and use that person to rob them all.

MAD CULTISTS

Most of the citizens of Elturel who survived the trip to Avernus either fled to the High Hall, locked themselves in their homes or businesses to hide, or perished at the hands of fiendish creatures in the days since their arrival.

A few, however, went mad. Zariel sensed this madness and sent these people mad visions that drive their actions. These people have carved an image of a sword into their foreheads and roam the streets, slaughtering anything in their path – although Zariel has ordered her devilish servants to give them pass.

The characters see five cult fanatics beating on doors, breaking windows, and otherwise wreaking havoc. If the fanatics see the characters, they immediately attack. If defeated and questioned, the cult fanatics ramble madly about fallen angels, flaming swords, and the entire city being plunged into the Styx to be “purified and made one with the darkness.”

MISSING IMP

A cloaked human woman approaches the party and asks if they’ve seen an imp. The woman is Amira (neutral warlock of the Great Old One in appendix A) and looking for her familiar, an imp named Chernok. Amira says that Chernok was “killed” in battle but when she cast her find familiar spell, he didn’t return to her, so she came to Avernus to retrieve him.

There are many imps in Avernus. What differentiates Chernok is his droopy right ear. Characters can make a successful DC 16 Wisdom (Survival) check to track him during their travels. According to Amira, he also loves chocolate and gold coins. Amira gives them a sending stone to notify her if they find Chernok, and offers the party her services as a reward.

If identified, Chernok is at first reluctant to return to Amira, annoyed that he was sent back to the Nine Hells. He lured his keeper here as payback, but a successful DC 15 Charisma (Intimidation or Persuasion) convinces Chernok to return to Amira.

NASTY WEATHER

The characters are walking down the street when acidic rain begins falling from the sky. A balding human man in a fur robe stands in the doorway of a little terrace and beckons them inside to escape the weather. He cryptically says that they might also learn something to their advantage. Roll a d4 to determine the man’s identity.

1. He is a vampire spawn and attacks the party as soon as he secures the front door. He has a stash of 150 gp.
2. He is a enchanter (see appendix A) who casts a 5th level charm person spell in order to charm the entire party. If the enchantment succeeds, he takes the party to a nearby group of four bearded devils, offering them as prisoners in return for his own freedom.
3. He is a priest who worships the same deity as one of the characters. The deity has instructed him to give the characters a special blessing, which grants each of them 2d8 temporary hit points.
4. He is a Harper spy and has a secret chamber beneath his floor. He won’t accompany the party but allows them to use his secret chamber to safely rest.

NYCALOTH THUGS

Eldizon and Merrowdown, two nycaloths, see Elturel's predicament as their golden opportunity. The pair deserted their brigade in the Blood War battle to travel to the city. Now that they're here, they plan to use force, guile, or both to take the city. Then they can hand it over to the highest bidder and move to a plane with lots of sunshine and refreshing drinks.

When the nycaloths spot the characters, the pair follow invisibly then wait for the characters to split up or rest. The yugoloths appear and threaten the smallest group of characters for money, magic items, or Lulu. The nycaloths are cowards. As soon as one is reduced to less than half its hit points, both flee.

OBSESSED AVENGER

When Elturel came to Avernus, retired adventurer Estellen Sohl was sitting down to eat with her family. A lawful good human mage of no small power, Estellen was able to protect her family for a short time, but recently devils overran her home and killed them.

Mad with grief, Estellen now wanders the streets, killing any devils, demons, or other evil creatures she can find. She knows the tricks of devils well, so she assumes anyone she encounters to be a devil in disguise.

When they meet her, the characters must converse with Estellen with great care. If they say or do anything that can be misconstrued as an evil or treacherous act, she acts them immediately. Estellen has only one spell slot of each level remaining.

A successful DC 15 Charisma (Persuasion) check can reassure the mage, or a DC 15 Wisdom (Medicine) check can diagnose Estellen's madness. Even if dealt with carefully, Estellen wants to die killing as many of the fiends as possible. Characters might be able, however, to point her in a direction that favors them.

PRIESTESS OF LATHANDER

The characters encounter Mona Kirando (lawful good female human priest) as she attempts to lead a family of four homeless commoners (named Brella, Fargus, Tomdon, and Yan) to safety.

If the middle-aged priestess of Lathander notices the characters, Mona introduces herself. If the characters are kind to her, Mona offers her spells to heal them. If the characters threaten the NPCs or commit any evil acts in her presence, Mona takes no chances and attacks while yelling for her companions to flee.

RAKSHASA HUSTLER

Jalrai is a rakshasa who sees Elturel's plight as an opportunity to get rich. When the city falls, she plans to take her money to the Material Plane and use it to hire an army of minions.

Jalrai searches Elturel in the form of a wood elf priestess of Tyr named Calissa Arven. She convinces survivors to trust her and give her access to their hiding places. When she finds their refuges, she devours them and takes their belongings, storing them in a portable hole.

The characters encounter Jalrai as she leaves a residence where she just devoured a family of four. When the rakshasa notices the characters, she offers to travel with them and aid them on whatever quest they have. A successful DC 20 Wisdom (Insight) check reveals her as a fiend. Jalrai does not attack the characters if confronted; instead she flies or uses plane shift to escape.

SKELETON BONFIRE

A pile of mortal bodies fuels an infernal bonfire in the middle of a street. The fire is clearly not natural. A detect magic spell reveals that an aura of necromancy magic radiates from the fire. When the characters get near it, 1d6 skeletons emerge from the fire and attack (they have no ranged weapons). Every round thereafter on initiative count 20, another 1d6 skeletons emerge and attack.

This continues until a bless spell or similar magic is cast upon the corpses. A successful DC 15 Intelligence (Religion) check made as an action to say a suitable prayer of rest also stops the spawning of more skeletons as the magical fire is quelled.

TREASURE

If the pyre is calmed, the characters can search the pile and find jewelry and coins worth a total of 400 gp.

THIEF OF IVORY WINGS

Several months before Elturel was dragged into Avernus, an unscrupulous hunter named Emarki Langridere (neutral evil male human) captured a pegasus and hid it in his cellar, to sell it later on the black market in Baldur's Gate. He was killed by demons in Elturel's descent, but was reborn as a devil with a tiny fragment of his former memories.

Now an imp, Langridere has slowly made his way from the Styx to Elturel, and is searching for his half-remembered cellar. A character in Elturel with a passive Wisdom (Perception) score of 15 or higher notices that a horned devil that was flying in circles for hours (maybe even days!) has suddenly flown with incredible purpose towards a house on the outskirts of the city.

Characters who pursue find that the invisible imp has convinced a horned devil to help it find the lost pegasus. The horned devil has smashed open the cellar door and is dragging the chained and muzzled pegasus out into the streets. If they save the pegasus, it tells them its name is Polydamas and agrees to be the steed of any good-aligned character, especially an elf or half-elf, while they search for a way out of Avernus.

WILD BEASTS

A travelling zoo was performing in Elturel when the city was dragged to Avernus. Several of the beasts escaped, and they now roam the streets hunting for food.

Two saber-toothed tigers and four lions hunt in a pack, taking down anything in their path. An individual creature can be brought to heel with a successful DC 15 Wisdom (Animal Handling) check. However, the madness of Avernus makes the beasts incapable of pushing down their primal urges for long.

CHAPTER 4: ENCOUNTER CHAINS

THE FOLLOWING ENCOUNTERS CHAINS CONSIST OF SEVERAL smaller encounters linked together by the same story in Avernus. There are two encounter chains that could be fleshed out into longer adventures if you so desire.

DRAGON QUEEN'S CHOSEN

The characters discover that words have been carved into one of the monolithic boulders that dot the wastelands of Avernus. The script reads, “Prove yourself worthy of being my chosen,” and seems to have been carved into the stone by a massive claw.

The start of this encounter chain is suitable for characters of 7th level. If the characters are already 8th level or higher, you can play any of the earlier encounters in this encounter chain out of order by using the encounter building rules in chapter 3 of the Dungeon Master’s Guide to add more foes.

PEARLSCENT DEVOTION

Later on the same day the characters discovered the message clawed into the boulder, they are attacked by a pair of white abishais (see appendix A). Both devils attack recklessly, with a mindless intent to kill. When the last is killed, a deific voice echoes from its dying maw: “You are powerful, but you are not yet worthy.”

SHADY DEATH

Once the characters reach 8th level, they are ambushed by a pair of black abishais (see appendix A) in the middle of a long rest. These assassins begin combat by using their Creeping Darkness action option to surround the characters in darkness. When the last is killed, the same voice escapes from its mouth.

“I sense great promise in you,” it rasps. “Seek out the merchant with a heart of gold.”

VENOMOUS WIT

Once the characters reach 10th level, they are approached by a green abishai (see appendix A) named Xalgonai masquerading as a human merchant from Mahadi’s Wandering Emporium. This abishai claims that she “has heard you are in the market for uncommon finery” and offers to sell them a human heart made of solid gold for 10,000 gold.

She is willing to be haggled down, reducing her price by 2,000 gold every time a character makes a successful DC 15 Charisma (Deception or Persuasion) check. Once a character fails this check, she refuses to lower her prices further.

During this negotiation, the abishai subtly casts dominate person on the most foolish-seeming character in the party. A creature with a passive Wisdom (Perception) score of 19 or higher notices that she has cast a spell. Once the character is dominated, Xalgonai attacks mercilessly, using confusion and other spells to keep her foes at bay while her dominated ally kills them.

When Xalgonai is killed, the deific voice of Tiamat once more emerges from her and says, “You have both great strength and sufficient guile. But you must grow stronger still before the heart will reveal its secrets to you.” The golden heart is a living but dormant creature and registers as a fiend when examined by a paladin’s Divine Sense or similar magic. It can’t move, can’t act, and is immune to all damage and conditions.

SHOCKING CURIOSITY

Once the characters reach 12th level, the golden heart begins beating. Its beating can be felt even when contained in a character's pack, and it grows faster as they grow closer to Demon Zapper (see chapter 3 of Baldur's Gate: Descent into Avernus).

A blue abishai (see appendix A) named Ceruquea lurks in a cave some 200 feet away from the Demon Zapper. When the characters draw near, the abishai greets them like friends and explains that the heart is the current form Severin Silrajin, a former leader of the Cult of Dragons who tried and failed to call Tiamat into the Material Plane many years ago. Tiamat transformed Severin's soul into this inert heart as punishment.

The abishai believes that the heart could be transformed if exposed to the unbridled radiant energy of the Demon Zapper. If the heart comes within 100 feet of the zapper, a beam of radiant light explodes from the zapper and strikes the heart. Any character holding the heart at this time must succeed on a DC 18 Dexterity saving throw or take 260 (40d12) radiant damage, or half as much damage on a successful save.

When the heart is struck by the ray, it transforms into an ioun stone of absorption made of gleaming gold. The blue abishai thanks the characters for acquiring such a powerful item then uses its most powerful spells to try to annihilate them from a distance.

When the abishai dies, Tiamat's voice emerges from its mouth and congratulates the characters. "You have responded to treachery with lethal force. Very good. However, you have seen only a fraction of my true power. If you seek an audience with the Dragon Queen, travel to the tower of my current champion."

BURNING AMBITION

When the characters visit the spire of black rock that houses Tiamat's champion (see chapter 3 of Baldur's Gate: Descent into Avernus), they find its owner and his allies absent. Instead, another being is awaiting their arrival: a red abishai named Sut'valloth. It is ready to test their might and judge their worthiness. The abishai moves and acts haltingly, and speaks with the rumbling, disproportionate voice of Tiamat herself—for she is using the abishai as a direct conduit for her consciousness.

The abishai attacks with a gleeful howl in the midst of the pleasantries, and uses its powers of flight to burst out of one of the tower's windows after attacking. It weaves in and out of the tower, goading the characters to fight in the air around the tower.

When the abishai is killed, Tiamat animates his fallen body like a puppet. He stands, a malevolent gleam in his eye, and speaks to them with Tiamat's voice. "You are indeed most worthy. Now, claim your place at my side. Kneel, mortals. And rise—champions of the Dragon Queen. Take this power, and use it to end the reign of Zariel and make Avernus mine once more."

The characters each gain the ability to cast the spell dragon's breath (found in Xanathar's Guide to Everything) at 5th level with a range of Self. Once a character casts this spell, they can't cast it again until next dawn. Additionally, as champions of Tiamat, they can call upon her power to shatter the chains of Elturel (as described in "Breaking the Chains" in chapter 5 of Baldur's Gate: Descent into Avernus) or to perform a similar task by meditating in prayer for 10 minutes. The champions can only make a request upon Tiamat's power in this way once, and only in Avernus.

SERPENT OF DECEIT

A host of celestial couatls followed Zariel on her doomed charge into Avernus, and their numbers slowly dwindled as the seemingly endless hordes of demons and devils wore upon their finite ranks. Now only one of these divine serpents remains—and has succumbed to evil.

The start of this encounter chain is suitable for characters of 5th level.

ADRIESTA THE FALLEN SERPENT

This couatl hides in Mahadi's Wandering Emporium, using her Change Shape trait to take the form of a female tiefling named veteran Adriesta with a red cloak and buzzed-short white hair. She uses the dream spell to draw adventurers to her location.

The corrupting influence of Avernus has taken its toll upon the once-pure celestial. Wicked thoughts have crept into the couatl's mind, and her will to resist has slowly drained away. Adriesta seeks to pledge her service to Zariel, and is in need of companions to protect her on the journey to Zariel's Flying Fortress (see chapter 3 of Baldur's Gate: Descent into Avernus).

Adriesta's type is fiend, and her alignment is lawful evil. As a fiendish couatl, Adriesta gains an additional action, which increases her challenge rating to 5 (1,800 XP):

Summon Fiend (1/day). Adriesta conjures two hell hounds in the two unoccupied spaces closest to her.

OPENING GAMBIT

While shopping in Mahadi's Wandering Emporium, the characters encounter Adriesta on the outskirts of the emporium, gazing out onto the wastes. Before the characters move on, however, they see the tiefling attacked by a group of four spined devils. She is instantly tackled to the ground, and seems to be in mortal danger.

This is just a ruse; these spined devils were hired by Adriesta to draw in useful patsies. Each spined devil flees when reduced to half its hit points; they have no intention of dying for this job. Once Adriesta is saved, she plays the part of the warrior with wounded pride, downplaying the danger she was in and ruefully thanking the characters for their help.

Adriesta's Shielded Mind trait prevents anyone from divining her true intentions until it's too late.

DREAM OF DIVINITY

Now that Adriesta has met the characters, she enacts phase two of her scheme: the dream of divinity. She casts dream, and one of the characters receives a sleeping vision of an awe-inspiring celestial serpent, coiling around the imposing flying fortress of Zariel. It speaks in a booming voice: "I am the Serpent of the Heavens, one who followed Zariel into Avernus and lived. I know you seek to perform a great task—one that involves my greatest nemesis. I have entrusted a secret route to Zariel's citadel to the tiefling warrior Adriesta; find her, and she will show you the true way to the fallen angel."

As the dream-serpent speaks, the dreamer's vision jumps from Mahadi's Wandering Emporium, then to a tower of steel that looms over the River Styx, and finally to a monolithic floating fortress hovering above the riverside tower. The serpent's voice says, "I entrust this task to you." The dream fades to black.

When the characters awake, they are beset by a trio of hell hounds that try to kill them. These fiends are servants of Adriesta, who uses them to test the adventurers' ability once more. If the characters tell Lulu the hollyphant of this dream, she says she doesn't remember a creature known as the Serpent of the Heavens but admits that there are a lot of things she doesn't remember. She also says that seeing Zariel in person might help her remember where the Sword of Zariel is hidden.

A QUEST OF FEIGNED VIRTUE

If the characters meet with Adriesta after receiving the dream summons, she plays up her reluctance to go on so difficult a journey, but eventually "admits" that she too received a vision from the so-called Serpent of the Heavens and agrees to show them the way to Zariel's citadel. She tells them—truthfully—that Zariel's flying fortress is too dangerous to be boarded while moving, but that it's guarded by only a skeleton crew while docked on the banks of the Styx.

Adriesta guides the characters to the Stygian dock (see chapter 3 of Baldur's Gate: Descent into Avernus). Along the way, however, they are beset by demons—an encounter that Adriesta suspected would occur but didn't instigate. The chaos of the Blood War is the entire reason why she needed the characters' aid in the first place. Two barlguras and two vrocks assail the adventurers from both land and sky, seeking to suck their souls from their corpses. Adriesta joins the characters in combat, using her tiefling veteran form to fight back.

BOARDING THE FLYING FORTRESS

The characters reach the Stygian dock after 1d4 days of grueling travel. During this time, several other encounters could occur. They reach the dock early in the day, and Adriesta shows them a secret way through the dock that passes through hidden access tunnels that completely avoids any encounters with devils or demons. (The couatl learned of these passages during an attack on this very dock when she was still a noble celestial standing at Zariel's side.)

While slinking through the barely staffed fortress (see "Zariel's Flying Fortress" in chapter 3 of Baldur's Gate: Descent into Avernus), the characters are caught by a pair of bearded devils patrolling the lower decks. Unless these devils are killed within the first round of combat, they flee and signal other patrols. If another patrol is signaled, the party is attacked by a bone devil.

If they're defeated, the devil hauls them up to the command deck to face Zariel's wrath. In this situation Zariel is out on the battlefield, and they are imprisoned within a wall of force for one hour while Zariel returns—enough time to complete a short rest.

THE SERPENT'S BETRAYAL

Archduke Zariel of Avernus (see appendix A) is on the fortress's command deck. She is willing to speak with these audacious mortals, whether the characters were brought there in chains, or successfully snuck in. At a lull in the conversation, such as when the characters run out of things to say, Adriesta steps into plain view before Zariel and demands to be heard.

She speaks plainly. "I am Adriesta. In days long past I fought at your side as a couatl." She transforms into her true form as a celestial serpent—but something is wrong. Her scales are tarnished and her feathered wings drip with blood. With a smirk she turns to the characters. "I wish to serve you again. I bring these mortals to you as sacrifices and as a demonstration of my power."

Zariel scoffs and smiles. "So be it," she says. "Prove your newfound power."

Adriesta uses her first action in combat to conjure two hell hounds. She uses her flying speed to attack the characters and then fly away while her hounds attack. During this fight, Zariel watches in amusement.

If the characters defeat Adriesta and her hounds, Zariel shakes her head in dismay. "She was weak," she says, "and did not deserve a place in my legions." Zariel then gazes with a look of pride at the characters and tosses them a trinket of her favor—a vicious longsword. Her demeanor then shifts, and she icily demands that they leave her sight and her fortress before she decides they would be better off as devils in her thrall.

If the characters decide to talk with Zariel more, information on how to roleplay her is found in chapter 5 of Baldur's Gate: Descent into Avernus. The true prize is that seeing Zariel sparked a memory within Lulu. Wherever the next destination on the characters' path through Avernus leads them, Lulu instantly knows where to go.

A creature can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns, ending the effect on itself on a success. If a creature's saving throw is successful or the effect ends for it, the creature is immune to the abishai's Frightful Presence for the next 24 hours.

Incite Fanaticism. The abishai chooses up to four of its allies within 60 feet of it that can see it. For 1 minute, each of those allies makes attack rolls with advantage and can't be frightened.

Power of the Dragon Queen. The abishai targets one dragon it can see within 120 feet of it. The dragon must make a DC 18 Charisma saving throw. A chromatic dragon makes this save with disadvantage. On a successful save, the target is immune to the abishai's Power of the Dragon Queen for 1 hour. On a failed save, the target is charmed by the abishai for 1 hour. While charmed in this way, the target regards the abishai as a trusted friend to be heeded and protected. Challenge 1/2 (100 XP)

Cloud of Vermin. Any creature, other than a devil, that starts its turn within 20 feet of the nupperibo must make a DC 11 Constitution saving throw. A creature within the areas of two or more nupperibos makes the saving throw with disadvantage. On a failure, the creature takes 2 (1d4) piercing damage.

Hunger-Driven. In the Nine Hells, the nupperibos can flawlessly track any creature that has taken damage from any nupperibo's Cloud of Vermin within the previous 24 hours.

Magic Resistance. The orthon has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

ACTIONS

Infernal Dagger. Melee Weapon Attack: +10 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 11 (2d4 + 6) slashing damage, and the target must make a DC 17 Constitution saving throw, taking 22 (4d10) poison damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. On a failure, the target is also poisoned for 1 minute. The poisoned target can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns, ending the effect on itself on a success.

Infernal Crossbow. Ranged Weapon Attack: +7 to hit, range 100/400 ft., one target. Hit: 14 (2d10 + 3) piercing damage, plus one of the following effects:

- Acid. The target must make a DC 17 Constitution saving throw, taking an additional 17 (5d6) acid damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.
- Blindness (1/Day). The target takes 5 (1d10) radiant damage. In addition, the target and all other creatures within 20 feet of it must each make a successful DC 17 Dexterity saving throw or be blinded until the end of the orthon's next turn.
- Concussion. The target and each creature within 20 feet of it must make a DC 17 Constitution saving throw, taking 13 (2d12) thunder damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.
- Entanglement. The target must make a successful DC 17 Dexterity saving throw or be restrained for 1 hour by strands of sticky webbing. A restrained creature can escape by using an action to make a successful DC 17 Dexterity or Strength check. Any creature other than an orthon that touches the restrained creature must make a successful DC 17 Dexterity saving throw or become similarly restrained.
- Paralysis (1/Day). The target takes 22 (4d10) lightning damage and must make a successful DC 17 Constitution saving throw or be paralyzed for 1 minute. The paralyzed target can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns, ending the effect on itself on a success.
- Tracking. For the next 24 hours, the orthon knows the direction and distance to the target, as long as it's on the same plane of existence. If the target is on a different plane, the orthon knows which one, but not the exact location there.

REACTIONS

Explosive Retribution. When it is reduced to 15 hit points or fewer, the orthon causes itself to explode. All other creatures within 30 feet of it must each make a DC 17 Dexterity saving throw, taking 9 (2d8) fire damage plus 9 (2d8) thunder damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. This explosion destroys the orthon, its infernal dagger, and its brass crossbow.

The creature has disadvantage on the save if it's within 30 feet of six or more rutterkins. On a successful save, the creature is immune to the Crippling Fear of all rutterkins for 24 hours. On a failed save, the creature becomes frightened of the rutterkins for 1 minute. While frightened in this way, the creature is restrained. At the end of each of the frightened creature's turns, it can repeat the saving throw, ending the effect on itself on a success.

APPENDIX B: MAGIC ITEMS

The following magic items are found in the encounters.

CHARLATAN'S DIE

Wondrous item, common

Whenever you roll this six-sided die, you can control which number it rolls.

EAR HORN OF HEARING

Wondrous item, common

While held up to your ear, this horn suppresses the effects of the deafened condition on you, allowing you to hear normally.

LOCK OF TRICKERY

Wondrous item, common

This lock appears to be an ordinary lock (of the type described in chapter 5 of the Player's Handbook) and comes with a single key. The tumblers in this lock magically adjust to thwart burglars. Dexterity checks made to pick the lock have disadvantage.

MOON-TOUCHED LONGSWORD

Weapon (longsword), common

In darkness, the unsheathed blade of this longsword sheds moonlight, creating bright light in a 15-foot radius and dim light for an additional 15 feet.

POPPET

Wondrous item, rare

Upon first glance this item appears to be no more than a simple burlap doll in the shape of humanoid. Each poppet is made with the essence of a specific humanoid (and if the poppet is found, the DM determines which humanoid's essence the doll contains). You can use the doll in a ritual that targets the creature, as long as you know the creature's name and that creature is on the same plane as you. The ritual requires 10 minutes and an item that belonged to the humanoid tied to the poppet: this can be a scrap of clothing, a lock of hair, a piece of jewelry, or any item that denotes sentiment or identity. At the end of the ritual the item that belonged to the humanoid is consumed and the target must succeed on a DC 17 Constitution saving throw or gain a level of exhaustion from experiencing excruciating internal pain. You may use the poppet to complete this ritual once every 12 hours.
